Owing to the sudden surge in the number of monsoon ailment cases across Maharashtra, the state health minister Rajesh Tope has directed all the district health officers to conduct a survey and intensify home-to-home surveys. The order also notified the health officers to strictly follow monsoon preparedness activities and increase awareness in each district through the Information and Education Cell (IEC).

Tope said all the districts have been ordered to survey their areas with the most number of chikungunya, dengue and malaria cases. Moreover, the neighbourhoods with the highest cases need to be monitored closely, and measures need to be taken to curb related diseases. "We have asked for the thorough monsoon report from each district and cause for the surge," said Tope.

Maharashtra reported 2,006 confirmed cases of chikungunya fever from January to October this year, the highest since 2017, when 1,438 cases were reported. In 2018 and 2019, 1,009 and 1,646 cases, respectively, were detected in the
